

TREES ON THE TABLELANDS

Do you want more trees on your farm?

The University of New England, in partnership with the Saving our Species program, is offering zero cost on-site consultations to eligible farmers and landholders that want to promote natural tree regeneration on their property. Whether you want to incorporate trees into your grazing production system to improve stock management, or simply wish to regenerate your woodland areas, we would love to talk with you!

www.treesonthetablelands.com

This program is funded through the Saving Our Species program and the Environmental Trust.

Local Land
Services

